

LIQUIDATOR MUSIC presents:

SIMBIOSI* (2010) by The Gramophone Allstars

Jazz and Jamaican music blend together in Simbiosi, the second album of the Catalan band The Gramophone Allstars.

TGA is a band of young talents lead by saxophonist Genis Bou in which vocalist Judit Neddermann and double bass player Vic Moliner excel with their performances. The album also benefits from two exceptional collaborations by Joan Diaz and Jon Robles, established musicians in the Spanish Jazz scene.

In Simbiosi we will find from the band's own compositions to references and versions of Soul and Jazz classics. All the members of the band deliberately recorded the album playing simultaneously in the studio, thus allowing a certain degree of improvisation to take part in the songs.

As an homage to the vinyl, Simbiosis is divided in two main sides. The first section is called Aromes Jamaicanes; Ska and Reggae engage with Soul, Funk, Latin and Bogaloo. However it is in Atmosferes Jazzistiques, where we find the singularity of this album; improvisation, sophisticated harmonies, refined arrangements and electrifying solos bring this second section closer to Jazz.

This new album is published by Liquidator.
